

Porcelain dinnerware has been synonymous with elegance and sophistication for centuries. It is the preferred choice for formal dinners, special occasions, and even everyday use. In this article, we will explore the 9 best porcelain dinnerware brands to buy in 2019. Porcelain dinnerware is a type of ceramic dinnerware that is made from kaolin, feldspar, and quartz. It is known for its translucency, strength, and beauty. Porcelain dinnerware is fired at a high temperature, making it resistant to chipping, cracking, and scratching.

1. Royal Copenhagen Royal Copenhagen is a Danish brand that has been producing porcelain dinnerware since 1775. Its dinnerware collections feature intricate designs and patterns that are hand-painted by skilled artisans. Royal Copenhagen is known for its blue and white designs, which are inspired by the landscapes of Denmark.
2. Herend Herend is a Hungarian brand that has been making porcelain dinnerware since 1826. Its dinnerware collections are known for their vibrant colors and intricate designs, which are often inspired by nature. Herend is also known for its signature butterfly and fishnet patterns.
3. Wedgwood Wedgwood is an English brand that has been producing porcelain dinnerware since 1759. Its dinnerware collections feature classic designs that are timeless and elegant. Wedgwood is known for its blue and white designs, which are inspired by Greek and Roman mythology.
4. Bernardaud Bernardaud is a French brand that has been making porcelain dinnerware since 1863. Its dinnerware collections feature modern and minimalistic designs that are perfect for contemporary homes. Bernardaud is known for its white porcelain, which is often embellished with delicate gold or platinum accents.
5. Lenox Lenox is an American brand that has been producing porcelain dinnerware since 1889. Its dinnerware collections feature classic designs that are perfect for formal occasions. Lenox is known for its ivory porcelain, which is often embellished with gold or platinum accents.
6. Villeroy & Boch Villeroy & Boch is a German brand that has been making porcelain dinnerware since 1748. Its dinnerware collections feature modern designs that are perfect for everyday use. Villeroy & Boch is known for its white porcelain, which is often embellished with colorful designs.
7. Vista Alegre Vista Alegre is a Portuguese brand that has been producing porcelain dinnerware since 1824. Its dinnerware collections feature intricate designs that are often inspired by Portuguese culture. Vista Alegre is known for its colorful and unique designs, which are perfect for special occasions.
8. Pickard Pickard is an American brand that has been making porcelain dinnerware since 1893. Its dinnerware collections feature traditional designs that are perfect for formal occasions. Pickard is known for its white porcelain, which is often embellished with gold or platinum accents.
9. Spode Spode is an English brand that has been producing porcelain dinnerware since 1770. Its dinnerware collections feature classic designs that are perfect for traditional homes. Spode is known for its blue and white designs, which are often inspired by English country gardens.

In conclusion, porcelain dinnerware is an essential item that adds elegance and sophistication to any meal. The 9 best porcelain dinnerware brands to buy in 2019 are Royal Copenhagen, Herend, Wedgwood, Bernardaud, Lenox, Villeroy & Boch, Vista Alegre, Pickard, and Spode. Each brand has its own unique style and design, making it easy to find the perfect dinnerware set for any occasion.

References

- porcelain dinnerware